Summary

COVID-19 vaccines are vital interventions to help end the pandemic. However, with severe issues with equitable global access, falsified, substandard (especially degraded) and diverted vaccines are becoming an increasing global public health problem, leading to vulnerable communities thinking that they are protected when they are not. In order to facilitate our understanding of such reports and to inform interventions, we summarise reports in the public domain relevant to diverted, substandard and falsified (SF) COVID-19 vaccines since the start of the pandemic. This report is cumulative, the last report was published in April 2021 and included information identified up to 31st March 2021. Newly added information in this report, since the last issue, is indicated in red.

In total between 12th March 2020 and 30th April 2021 we found, excluding duplicates, 109 reports of diverted or SF COVID-19 vaccines from 35 countries in the lay press (see Figure 1). When the vaccines were stated as unauthorised copies of approved vaccines, they were copies of products from Pfizer/BioNTech (12), AstraZeneca (7), Sinovac (5), Sinopharm (5), Moderna (4), Sputnik V (2), and Johnson & Johnson (1), and were reported online and/or from 12 countries (Australia, Brazil, China, Germany, Italy, Japan, Malaysia, Mexico, Philippines, Poland, USA, Ukraine). Nineteen of the lay press articles discussed missing or diverted COVID-19 vaccine doses. Errors in cold chain can lead to degradation and reduced vaccine potency of genuine and diverted products. Not only SF COVID-19 vaccine doses are being sold illegally. Empty COVID-19 vaccine vials are available for sale as well, facilitating the efforts of criminal groups to produce falsified vaccines.

Inequitable access is highly likely to fuel the occurrence of such incidents, negating the global good on health and economy of these remarkable vaccines. We urgently need joined-up interventions to reduce the risk of SF COVID-19 vaccines on global public health, through significant enhancements in global capacity for their prevention, detection and response.

Countries linked to incidents are indicated in orange or red. The red shaded countries are those for which there were no incidents reported in the previous issues of this report. For the orange shaded countries at least one incident has been reported in a previous issue. If a public report mentions a product name or a company, these details are indicated on the map, with in red the information that was added since the last issue. Ox-AZ: Oxford-AstraZeneca, and J&J: Johnson & Johnson. Source of the information - see Table 1 and 2.

1. Introduction

It is hoped that the deployment of COVID-19 vaccines, combined with other public health interventions, will reduce the incidence of COVID-19 infections and help end the pandemic. The storage and distribution of these vaccines is a major logistical challenge. Additional, but so far neglected, issues are substandard and falsified (SF) and diverted COVID-19 vaccines, a high risk globally, especially in low and middle income countries.

There have been numerous reports over the last two decades of vaccine falsification (aka counterfeiting), for example, rabies, cholera, meningitis, yellow fever and hepatitis B vaccines and degradation due to storage and transport at inappropriate temperatures. These risk impairing the effectiveness of vaccination programs, increasing mortality, morbidity and economic harm, engendering further viral mutants, confuse and alarm communities, and damage public confidence in immunization programs, reducing vaccine uptake. Major current risks for the implementation of COVID-19 vaccines include falsification and diversion fuelled by impaired access and the vital need for them globally, especially in the face of inequitable distribution. Vaccine degradation (included in the term substandard by WHO<sup>1</sup>) is also a major risk without robust regulated supply chains.

Here, we summarise reports in the public domain, relevant to SF COVID-19 vaccines, since the start of the pandemic. We describe SF vaccine incident reports, warnings issued by international organisations and through the scientific literature and regulatory alerts. The incidents highlighted in this report are not exhaustive and we are continuing to collate more reports. We also include reports of theft and diversion of COVID-19 vaccines from legitimate supply chains. It is highly likely that diverted vaccines will not be stored appropriately and their use is likely to result in people being unprotected when they think they are. The report aims to aid national medicine regulators, international organizations, vaccine manufacturers and distributors, and civil society by summarising the current public domain literature, to inform action and policy.

This report is cumulative and is updated monthly. Newly added reports are indicated in red font. This vaccine-orientated report is complementary to the larger report we issue monthly on issues with SF medical products for COVID-19 (see on the Infectious Diseases Data Observatory webpage)<sup>2</sup>.

This report was prepared by Kerlijn Van Assche, Céline Caillet and Paul Newton of the Medicine Quality Research Group, that is part of the Infectious Diseases Data Observatory (IDDO) and the MORU Tropical Health Network, Centre for Tropical Medicine & Global Health, Nuffield Department of Medicine, University of Oxford, UK.

2. Reports of SF COVID-19 vaccine incidents in the lay press

2.1 Methodology

The reports presented here were extracted from the Medicines Quality Monitoring Globe (the MQM Globe is accessible on the IDDO website<sup>4</sup>), a system that scrapes online newspapers (referenced in Google News) for early warnings of SF medical products. Any article describing recalls, seizures, diversions, thefts, scams, degradation, adulteration or contamination of COVID-19 vaccines, cases of patients suffering adverse effects/lack of efficacy after taking a COVID-19 vaccine suspected to be substandard or falsified (SF)<sup>5</sup> will be included.

The reports cited in Table 1 (covering 2020) and Table 2 (covering 2021) are all reports on diverted or SF COVID-19 vaccines that were published up to the 31st of March 2021 and present in the Medicine Quality Monitoring Globe (MQM Globe)<sup>6</sup>. The MQM Globe contains publicly available information on the quality of medical products from non-peer-reviewed lay literature (Please consult the IDDO website for full methodology). We include data that were published in English. For articles in French, Spanish, Mandarin, and Vietnamese in 2020, please consult the online MQM Globe. For 2021 we include articles in French, Spanish, Vietnamese and/or Chinese if the incident was not reported in the English lay press.

With the information provided in the articles, it is not always possible to make the distinction between cases of financial scams, SF COVID-19 vaccines or diverted COVID-19 vaccines. We aim at including incidents in which it is likely that a physical product claimed to be a vaccine is involved. When the article clearly states that the offers are pure financial scams (without a physical purported vaccine), we do not include the article: for example, criminals offering COVID-19 vaccines through a fake website<sup>7</sup> or COVID-19 vaccines sold over the phone<sup>8</sup> for which it is clearly established that it concerns a scam in which criminals are after personal details and money. In case of doubt and the possibility of a physical product behind the offer, we include the article: for example, vaccines are offered online or by phone but we cannot exclude that there is a physical product behind the offer because it is not mentioned in the article or no investigation has been done.

2.2 Incidents since the beginning of the pandemic

Between 12th March 2020 and 30th April 2021 we found, excluding duplicates, 109 reports of incidents with diverted, substandard or falsified COVID-19 vaccines linked to 35 different countries and/or online (see Figure 2): 22 reports were published in 2020 (see Table 1), 87 reports were published in 2021 (see Table 2). Nineteen of the reports deal with missing or diverted vaccines and seven with degradation. Unauthorised copies of approved COVID-19 vaccines of the Pfizer/BioNTech (12), AstraZeneca (7), Sinovac (5), Sinopharm (5), Moderna (4), Sputnik V (2), and Johnson & Johnson (1) were reported from 12 countries (Australia, Brazil, China, Germany, Italy, Japan, Malaysia, Mexico, Philippines, Poland, USA, Ukraine) and online.

Reports date from 12 March 2020 until 30 April 2021. We count here only one report per incident– there are many other reports describing these issues.

2.3 New incidents included since the last SF COVID-19 vaccine report

In this section we describe the reports, available in the MQM Globe, that have not been described in the previous COVID-19 vaccine reports (see in red font in Table 2), most of them were published between the 1st and 30th of April 2021.

Substandard or degraded vaccines

In March, Fosun Pharma, the Chinese pharmaceutical company responsible for the BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine distribution in China, communicated about a problem with “defective caps” for one lot (report ID 1021092). Awaiting further investigation, the use of the vaccine was suspended in Hong Kong and Macau.

In the previous COVID-19 vaccine report we reported on 15 million doses of the Johnson & Johnson (J&J) COVID-19 vaccine that needed to be discarded in March 2021 (see Table 2, report ID 1000915). All the doses were produced by Emergent BioSolutions, a subcontractor producing both the J&J and the Oxford-AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine at their manufacturing site in Baltimore (USA). Allegedly, in late February, there was a mix-up between vectors of both vaccines. On the 7th of April, another article reported that an additional 62 million doses of the J&J COVID-19 vaccine could have been contaminated and needed additional screening (report ID 1011051). The US FDA was stated as closely following up on the issue before approving release of the 62 million doses.

At a clinic in Colorado Springs (USA), 3,150 doses of the Pfizer/BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine had to be thrown away (report ID 1021500). There were concerns of a lack of consistent temperature monitoring and possible temperature excursions. After an investigation, the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment (CDPHE) confirmed that the vaccines storage and handling were substandard. Almost 4,000 people had already been vaccinated at the clinic, and it was recommended that they should be revaccinated with two doses of the Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine.

Diversion

In Florida, USA, ten vials of J&J COVID-19 vaccine were stolen from a refrigerator from a medical centre (report ID 1013423). A police investigation is ongoing. We have seen 2 reports on COVID-19 vaccines that were missing and probably stolen from hospitals in India. In Jaipur, Rajasthan state, 320 doses of Covaxin were allegedly stolen (report ID 1020922). Covaxin is the vaccine produced by the Indian manufacturer Bharat Biotech. It is feared that the doses will be diverted to the black market. In Jind district, Haryana state, a total of 1,710 doses went missing: 1,270 doses of Covishield and 440 doses of Covaxin (report ID 1031435). Investigations are ongoing.

Purported COVID-19 vaccines

In Brazil, a nursing assistant pretending to be a nurse allegedly injected falsified COVID-19 vaccines to approximately 57 people in Brazil (report ID 1010975 in French). She asked 90 euros per injection but instead of the COVID-19 vaccine she injected physiological water. The nursing assistant has been arrested.

In Germany, an investigation is ongoing into a nurse who replaced six COVID-19 vaccine doses with saline water (report ID 1038395). The nurse allegedly accidentally dropped the Pfizer vial and to cover up the loss, she replaced the lost doses with saline injections. The case came to light four days after the event when the nurse confided in her colleague.

An article in the Wall Street Journal reported on the seizure of falsified COVID-19 Pfizer/BioNTech vaccines in an apartment in Poland (report ID 1030129). According to Polish authorities no one received the falsified vaccine that was reported to contain an antiwrinkle treatment. Articles in the Polish press reported some additional information<sup>11,12</sup>. In mid-January a journalist bought 2 vials online of purported Pfizer/BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine. Analysis by the Jagiellonian University showed the falsified vial contained RNA in a concentration corresponding to the genuine vaccine. Further analysis by Pfizer allegedly showed the vials contained some hyaluronic acid. The seller was detained in January. The suspect was already being followed by the police for suspected online COVID-19 vaccine offers.

Illicit sales

Four people have been arrested in Venezuela for the online sale of COVID-19 vaccines together with other medicines on 'Marketplace' (report ID 1023308 in French). According to the article, several sources had already highlighted the issue of COVID-19 vaccines sold on the black market in Venezuela for 300 to 600 USD. Until now it was not possible to confirm those claims.

The Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), published a warning that COVID-19 vaccines not bought through the official recognized system are considered to be falsified and a risk for public health<sup>13</sup>. In the warning PAHO says it has reports from falsified and unauthorised vaccines amongst others in Bolivia, Colombia and Mexico (report ID 1034582). In another article, during an interview the deputy director of PAHO, Jarbas Barbosa, said PAHO received information on illegal COVID-19 vaccines sold through social networks in Mexico, Argentina and Brazil (report ID 1030705). He highlights that these vaccines are probably falsified or diverted and that good storage conditions cannot be ensured. In previous issues of the COVID-19 vaccine report, we reported on lay press articles dealing with SF COVID-19 vaccine issues in Colombia, Mexico, and Brazil. In February, AGEMED the Medicines Regulatory Authority of Bolivia had issued an alert<sup>14</sup> on illegal offers of Sputnik V vaccine on social media. However, only now with the recent lay press articles on the PAHO press release and the interview with the deputy director of PAHO, lay press articles in the MQM Globe are referring to reports for falsified or unauthorized vaccines in Bolivia and of illegal COVID-19 vaccines in Argentina.

Miscellaneous

An article reports on information provided by the director of the European Union Intellectual Property Office (EUIPO), which is part of the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF). Previously we reported on information shared by OLAF on COVID-19 vaccine issues in Europe (see Table 2 report ID 941124, 955619, and 961495). In the current article the EUIPO director, Christian Archambeau, says that containers were intercepted upon arrival in Europe with falsified vaccines (report ID 1005914 in Spanish). He states that the products that are were seized can be the finished falsified vaccine or just some elements to produce the vaccines for example only the vials, large bottles with filling-liquid, or labels. From the article it is not entirely clear if the article refers to vaccines in general or specifically to COVID-19 vaccines.

In the USA, an article reported on a pharmacist, a Director of pharmacy at a hospital in Illinois, who was selling empty COVID-19 vaccine vials (report ID 1043609). The empty vials were offered as a pair, one Pfizer/BioNTech and one Moderna vial, on Craigslist as “Own a piece of history”. The sale of empty COVID-19 vaccine vials might attract criminals wanting to produce falsified versions; nevertheless the pharmacist claimed he did not realise selling empty vials was problematic. The pharmacist did violate the applicable guidelines for vaccine packaging disposal. The same article suggests that an offer on Ebay, for 28 pairs of vials that have been sold, was published by the same person.

The Korea Disease Control and Prevention Agency ordered a recall for Doowon Meditec defective syringes used to administer the AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine (report ID 1025296). There are reports that the low dead space syringes produced by the local manufacturer Doowon Meditec, have a wrong scale marking and contain contaminants. At the time of the recall 500,000 syringes had already been used to vaccinate people; the remaining 700,000 syringes were recalled. Problems are reported for some serial numbers but all syringes were recalled out of precaution. An investigation is ongoing looking into the quality and safety concerns.

2.4 Hacking of COVID-19 vaccine data

In addition to the incidents of SF COVID-19 vaccines registered on the MQM Globe (and reported in Tables 1 and 2), several articles were published on the theft of data on COVID-19 vaccines.

In September 2020 an email phishing scheme started, targeting actors in the COVID-19 vaccine supply chain. At the end of 2020, the IBM Security X-Force unit discovered the hacking attacks. In April 2021, it turns out that the attack had a much wider impact than originally thought. Forty-four companies active in the vaccine’s cold chain distribution system such as transport, warehousing, storage, and distribution of medical products, in 14 countries were affected. It remains unclear who the hackers were interested in. Some of the possibilities are “national procurement plans for vaccines, timetables for shipments, intellectual property, cargo security measures and World Trade Organization trade facilitation agreements”.

In Europe, Pfizer/BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine data were stolen in December 2020 from the European Medicines Agency (EMA). The hackers allegedly manipulated the stolen data and subsequently leaked the altered data to impair public trust. Ongoing investigations reveal that EMA was allegedly first targeted by Chinese spies, followed by Russian intelligence agency later on. The hackers possibly were interested in which countries and at what price the Pfizer/BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine would be available.

Extract. « The coronavirus outbreak that began in late 2019 (COVID-19) has evolved so rapidly and globally that it has been qualified as a Public Health Emergency of International Concern and a pandemic by the World Health Organization (WHO). The rapid spread of the disease worldwide, and uncertainties as to its evolution, demand a global response in which law enforcement services play a crucial role in contributing to the effort to control the disease, promoting safer communities, and fighting criminals who see the outbreak as an opportunity to increase or diversify their activities. [...] “3.2.2 FAKE AND COUNTERFEIT MEDICAL PRODUCTS *The COVID-19 pandemic has offered an opportunity for fast cash, as predatory criminals take advantage of the high market demand for personal protection and hygiene products. The results of Operation Pangea, conducted by INTERPOL with enforcement partners in March 2020, have shown an increase in fake or counterfeit medical items available on the market, including: Disposable surgical masks, Hand sanitizers, Antiviral and antimalarial medication, Vaccines, COVID-19 test kits. Recommendations: (*)Law enforcement agencies should pay particular attention to the above list of fake or counterfeit items. (*)Inform the general public about false or misleading online advertisements related to these products. (*)National reporting hotlines may identify such scams at an early stage.* »

Extract. « This Medical Product Alert warns consumers, healthcare professionals, and health authorities against a growing number of falsified medical products that claim to prevent, detect, treat or cure COVID-19. The Coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic (caused by the virus SARS-CoV-2) has increased demand for medicines, vaccines, diagnostics and reagents, all related to COVID-19, creating an opportunity for ill-intended persons to distribute falsified medical products. Due diligence is required from all actors in the procurement, use and administration of medical products, in particular those affected by the current crisis of, or related to, COVID-19. 1. Falsified in vitro diagnostics and laboratory reagents, 2. Falsified medicines and vaccines. »

<https://www.europol.europa.eu/publications-documents/viral-marketing-counterfeits-substandard-goods-and-intellectual-property-crime-in-covid-19-pandemic>

Extract. « Particular attention should be paid to developments and criminal innovation if a genuine vaccine for COVID-19 is developed as this will likely prompt a wave of offers for counterfeit vaccines. However, the development of a vaccine will also likely result in an immediate drop in demand for counterfeit pharmaceutical and healthcare products. Criminals involved in the trade of counterfeit products prior to the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic will turn to other commodities to counterfeit and distribute. »

Extract. « Efforts to develop a vaccine against COVID-19 are ongoing around the world. Scammers are already offering versions of such a vaccine online. However, once the development of a genuine vaccine has been announced, it is expected that counterfeiters and fraudsters will invest heavily in offering ineffective counterfeits of this vaccine especially online via different platforms and on social media. »

Extract. « Demand-led supply during COVID-19 and the future criminal threat involving vaccines. The demand-supply gap in COVID-19-related products that naturally arose in the early containment phase of the pandemic is gradually being reduced for some products. Producers and suppliers of non-pharmaceutical medical products, including medical grade face masks and surgical gowns, are responding more rapidly by increasing manufacturing capacity thereby reducing opportunities for scams and trafficking in substandard and falsified products. Since the production of such products does not require highly technical infrastructure or sophisticated know-how, the supply chain can be quickly adapted to larger demand. However, when it comes to pharmaceutical medicines to prevent and treat the virus, no such products have yet been found, and building a supply chain to satisfy global demand will require a much longer time scale. This time gap, in the absence of a scientific solution, is an opportunity for criminal groups to sell substandard and falsified medical products. For legitimate vaccine products, the global manufacturing capacity is limited by many technical and regulatory factors as well as the fact that there are only a relatively small number of such manufacturers in existence, and they may not readily cope with rapid change. It is to be expected that criminal actors will seize new opportunities to market substandard and falsified vaccines as soon as a legitimate vaccine candidate is announced and before the genuine product can be legitimately produced and supplied. Again, as demand is likely to be greater than the ability to supply legitimate vaccines, the illicit market space will continue to expand whenever there are anecdotal reports of unproven remedies. Some illegal activities surrounding falsified vaccines have already emerged, even though a vaccine has not yet been discovered. A website advertising a fraudulent coronavirus vaccine was detected in the United States of America. The US Department of Justice has subsequently issued a public warning against criminals seeking to exploit the state of emergency and uncertainty surrounding COVID-19 by advertising illegitimate vaccines. »

Extract. « The number of G20 countries that identified certain corruption risks emanating from the COVID-19 crisis. Nine countries indicated risks pertaining to cyberfraud which include the utilization of new Information and Communication Technologies and cyber-scams. 13 countries reported increased corruption vulnerabilities in the exploitation of stimulus packages including dedicated employment furlough schemes and other economic aid. 15 countries identified heightened health-related fraud which includes risks emanating from counterfeit medicines, overpriced medical equipment, health procurement collusion, among others. It is worth noting that these risks were also identical to the new and emerging risks identified by G20 countries. [...] “The United Kingdom noted the rapid emergence of multiple examples of COVID19 fraud which sought to exploit the immediate vulnerabilities and demand across society; affected sectors included medical supplies (personal protective equipment (PPE) or fake vaccines), shortages of certain goods and services and in the provision of financial services (personal loans, stimulus relief funds). It was also noted that fraud was increasingly enabled and perpetrated using digital technology; the use of digital platforms - phishing, emails and online interfaces, among others.” [...] “Spain: The G20 should be increasingly used to share best practices and experiences. The exchange of operational information would facilitate the early detection of corruption instances linked to the COVID-19 crisis and future pandemics. This will be especially relevant once COVID-19 vaccines become available in order to avoid the proliferation of counterfeit vaccines and/or the sale and trafficking of vaccines through illicit channels.” [...] “Turkey: G20 countries should increase and accelerate international cooperation in emergency contexts. Joint measures should be taken to prevent the production and distribution of counterfeit drugs concerning the COVID-19 vaccine and related therapeutics. »

Extract. « Criminal targeting of legitimate vaccines. In addition, as legitimate vaccines move closer to delivery, the targeting of storage facilities and distribution networks by criminal networks can also be expected, and the updated guidelines highlight the need for secure storage and delivery of supplies. "High demand combined with a limited supply will make COVID-19 vaccines the equivalent of liquid gold to organized crime networks as soon as one is available."(Jürgen Stock, INTERPOL Secretary General). "This is why it is essential for action to be taken now, to both protect the legitimate supply chain for when the vaccine is ready, and to prevent the production and distribution of fake COVID-19 vaccines. "As the global COVID-19 situation continues to evolve, so must the law enforcement response and these updated guidelines provide a useful reference document for frontline officers to protect themselves and the communities they serve," concluded Secretary General Stock. »

Extract. « *INTERPOL has issued a global alert to law enforcement across its 194 member countries warning them to prepare for organized crime networks targeting COVID-19 vaccines, both physically and online. The INTERPOL Orange Notice outlines potential criminal activity in relation to the falsification, theft and illegal advertising of COVID-19 and flu vaccines, with the pandemic having already triggered unprecedented opportunistic and predatory criminal behaviour. It also includes examples of crimes where individuals have been advertising, selling and administering fake vaccines. Extract. « *With COVID-19 vaccines being approved for use in different parts of the globe, the scale and complexity of their manufacture, allocation and distribution globally will be unprecedented. This will also present corruption risks that may threaten vital public health goals. These risks include the entry of substandard and falsified vaccines into markets, theft of vaccines within the distribution systems, leakages in emergency funding designated for the development and distribution of vaccines, nepotism, favouritism, and corrupted procurement systems. Extract. « Another problem emerging from the affected medical supply chain is the proliferation of falsified and substandard medical products. A decreasing supply of medical products coupled with a worsening pandemic created a problem of a sudden increase in inferior medical products. [...] Panic buying present opportunities for fraudsters to fill the gap between overwhelming demand and shortage of supply. The pandemic has made it incredibly easy for fraudsters to get away with and profit from falsified medical products. Some of the scammers include new suppliers who had previously been denied government authorization. The urgency of the problem and the inability to travel to fields of operations for quality audits to expose health systems to fake medical products. At the same time, while government regulators may be conscious of these risks, political pressure to deliver goods often lead to fast-tracked approval of products. [...] The insights outlined in this section have demonstrated the vulnerabilities of developing countries in accessing Covid-19 health supplies. After lagging behind their counterparts during the initial response to the pandemic, they are now at risk of being left behind in access to vaccines. As such, this literature has demonstrated the need for aligning international trade and global supply chains with their health improvement initiatives. »

A “flattening of the curve” will not halt the progression of this parallel infodemic, as the public continues to desperately seek access to COVID-19 testing, therapeutics, and an eventual vaccine. As legitimate news about promising and new COVID-19 treatments and countermeasures becomes available, scammers and counterfeiters will inevitably seek to capitalize on desperation and high demand from global citizens who simply want to be safe and prepared against this historic disease.* »

Extract. « The COVID-19 pandemic has unleashed unprecedented and complex public policy issues. One that has emerged as a challenge for many countries globally is how to ensure the efficient and effective procurement of quality medical supplies. Existing corruption pressures on procurement—everything from undue influence to the outright bribery of public officials—has been amplified by the pandemic, and thus demands commensurate policy responses. We argue that transparency and accountability in procurement are essential to preventing the corruption risks that threaten the health and well-being of populations. »

[...] “Corruption in procurement: COVID-19. Promising breakthroughs in COVID-19 medicines research offer seemingly rare glimpses of hope in the fight against the pandemic. For example, a University of Oxford randomized clinical trial demonstrated the beneficial use of dexamethasone, a generic drug, in improving survival rates in COVID-19 patients with respiratory complications. Researchers also conducted successful early clinical trials into a promising vaccine candidate, with the latest results demonstrating the vaccine’s ability to induce a strong immune response. Effective procurement of these products, and others, to treat COVID-19 will depend on robust government procurement practices. Past experience illuminates how corruption in pharmaceutical procurement can distort and restrict equitable access to their life-saving properties by increasing prices, facilitating the distribution of substandard and falsified medicines, and creating shortages. » in drug and medical equipment procurement and price gouging of essential supplies, such as hand sanitizer and 3M masks. The European Medicines Agency (EMA) and the WHO have both issued public warnings about the increase in the circulation of falsified medicines. The risk of falsified medicines is not only for those products that may potentially treat COVID-19 but also for other drugs and products, particularly when shortages exist. Newton and Bond (2020) explained that the circulation of substandard and falsified products is heightened when shortages are taking place and quality assurance standards are lax. They advanced the importance of information-sharing among countries to ensure that global demand and supplies are being met and noted that countries need to ensure sufficient regulatory controls. They also pointed out that this will be even more critical once valid COVID-19 treatments are available. Governments and health institutions are also under pressure to purchase and import quickly needed medical equipment and supplies for COVID-19 through emergency procurement processes. The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) has reported a number of bribery cases in the health industry and the risk of the purchase of inferior or falsified goods. »

Abstract. « The counterfeiting of vaccines is an increasing problem globally with the safety of persons vaccinated, the trust in vaccines generally and the associated reputation of vaccine manufacturers and regulatory agencies at risk. This risk is especially critical with the on-going development of COVID-19 vaccines. The ability to track and trace vaccines through the vaccine supply chain down to persons vaccinated has to be enhanced. In this context of traceability, the global immunization community has recently set the barcoding of the primary packaging of vaccines, specifically vaccine vials and pre-filled syringes, as a top priority. Emerging vaccine manufacturers are already engaged in investigating ways to incorporate barcoding in their labelling and packaging using GS1 international standards. A specific pilot taking place in Indonesia by the national vaccine manufacturer, Bio Farma, shows the innovation of barcoding on primary packaging already underway with a relatively modest level of investment and success at this stage. This article highlights the efforts of industry and governments on the value of traceability and introduction to 2D barcodes. Access to financial resources and support from the international immunization community would accelerate such innovations leading to enhanced security of the vaccine supply chain. »

Abstract. « The COVID-19 pandemic has reshaped the demand for goods and services worldwide. The combination of a public health emergency, economic distress, and misinformation-driven panic have pushed customers and vendors towards the shadow economy. In particular, dark web marketplaces (DWMs), commercial websites accessible via free software, have gained significant popularity. Here, we analyse 851,199 listings extracted from 30 DWMs between January 1, 2020 and November 16, 2020. We identify 788 listings directly related to COVID-19 products and monitor the temporal evolution of product categories including Personal Protective Equipment (PPE), medicines (e.g., hydroxychloroquine), and medical frauds. Finally, we compare trends in their temporal evolution with variations in public attention, as measured by Twitter posts and Wikipedia page visits. We reveal how the online shadow economy has evolved during the COVID-19 pandemic and highlight the importance of a continuous monitoring of DWMs, especially now that real vaccines are available and in short supply. We anticipate our analysis will be of interest both to researchers and public agencies focused on the protection of public health. »

Abstract. « The ongoing COVID-19 vaccination campaign has so far targeted less than 3% of the world population, and even in countries where the campaign has started many citizens will not receive their doses for many months. There is clear evidence that previous shortages of COVID-19 related goods (e.g., masks and COVID-19 tests) and services pushed customers, and vendors, towards illicit online trade occurring on dark web marketplaces. Is this happening also with vaccines? Here, we report on our effort to continuously monitor 102 dark web marketplaces. By February 26, we found 33 listings offering a COVID-19 vaccine, seven of which offering officially approved vaccines. The number of currently active listings is 11, including one listing selling the Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine, one listing the AstraZeneca/Oxford vaccine, and 9 listings selling vaccines of unspecified type. Illicit trade of uncertified COVID-19 vaccines poses a concrete threat to public health and risks to undermine public confidence towards vaccination. »

Extract. « (*) Result: Firstly, this study has ascertained the current prevalence of counterfeit drugs and the reasons for that. The study discovers a very high level of counterfeit drugs and some reasons behind that. Secondly, this study has also found some barriers to blockchain adoption, including the fact that the level of awareness of blockchain technology among stakeholders within the Nigerian pharmaceutical supply chain and the regulatory agencies is very low. (*) Conclusion: It was concluded that the efforts put in developing a viable COVID-19 vaccine could be undermined due to the current nature of the Nigerian pharmaceutical supply chain, the nature of porous borders in place, absence of an apparent drug distribution system, among others. This study also concludes that the supply chain's current structure needs more regulatory and structural interventions by the Nigerian government than blockchain technology. In other words, with the current nature of the supply chain, blockchain technology adoption would not be effective in delivering the said benefits reported by scholars because the atmosphere is not conducive for successful blockchain adoption. »

5. Regulatory authorities

In this section we include warnings or reports per country, published on websites of regulatory authorities. This section is work in progress, and the list is thus not exhaustive. We are putting a system in place on the Medicines Quality Monitoring Globe (MQM Globe) to more easily access regulatory and alert webpages.

Several lay press articles on the MQM Globe report on warnings coming from regulatory authorities, however those can be found in the lay press articles in the annexes.

Extract. « In an effort to protect vulnerable consumers, government agencies are cracking down on COVID-related cybercrime. NABP applauds these efforts. Regulators, members of Congress, and state attorneys general are also asking the private sector for assistance. Many internet intermediaries have stepped up to the plate, shutting down fraudulent face mask, vaccine, and test kit sellers. However, illegal internet “pharmacies” continue, largely unabated, to peddle falsified, substandard, and dangerous drugs, including purported treatments for COVID-19. This behavior is predictable; these bad actors have been around for over 20 years. We can – and must – stop it now. »

Extract. « Counterfeiting is not a new problem; it has harmed manufacturers, American workers and consumers for years. But the problem is getting worse, and the COVID-19 pandemic has shown just how dangerous inaction can be. As part of the nation’s critical response effort, manufacturers have been supplying health care workers and other Americans on the front lines of this crisis with vital goods, including personal protective equipment, hospital beds, ventilators, hand sanitizers, cleaning supplies and other critical health care and safety products. But while manufacturing men and women work long hours to ramp up production of desperately needed products to fight the spread of this deadly illness, counterfeiters have exploited the crisis to peddle fake tests, dangerous vaccines and ineffective protective gear. These counterfeits are harming American citizens and hindering manufacturers’ efforts to protect their workers and communities. The prevalence of counterfeits in the COVID-19 response has brought new urgency to this long-simmering issue. So the National Association of Manufacturers is leading the charge against fake and counterfeit goods, bringing together diverse stakeholders and driving innovative policy solutions to address these issues once and for all and to ensure the long-term success of our sector and the safety and security of the people who rely on our products. »

A combination of new players, dispensing large numbers of products in non-standard scenarios and at locations where the scanning technology and processes have not yet been established as routine, is highly likely to generate a spike of EU-FMD alerts that manufactures need to deal with. There is a real concern that many manufacturers are even today ill-prepared to deal with the routine number of EU-Alerts in timely manner and that they will be swamped by a flood of new alerts that are likely to arise due to technical issues, processing errors and – inevitably – human error. Ignoring these alerts, even if the vast majority are going to be false alerts, is not an option and manufacturers must ensure that their organisation and processes are ready to scale and flex up to this additional challenge they face once the vaccine roll-out begins in earnest.* »

That gives organised crime the time and space needed to strategise, adapt to security measures and to insert their products into supply chains. The poverty and official corruption that’s unfortunately prevalent throughout Africa makes their job much easier. »*

Extract. « There has been a huge upsurge in scams since the start of the global COVID-19 outbreak. Fake treatments, fake versions of real treatments, fake medical products including personal protective equipment, and fraud surrounding everything from unemployment payments to business relief aid. COVID-19 vaccines are modern medical miracles produced in record time with a high effectiveness rate. Everyone should get one, but the rollout will take time. In the meantime COVID scammers are preying on the public to try and make a buck, and in some cases, endangering their lives. »

PSM is describing three broad categories of COVID-19 vaccine crime: 1) Vaccines Signups Dangled For Financial And Identity Theft, 2) Diversion: Shots For Sale Where They Shouldn't Be, 3) Fake Substances Sold As Vaccines.

Extract. « International crime fighting agencies say organized crime groups have all the networks and methods needed to smuggle falsified, substandard and stolen COVID-19 vaccines across Africa. [...] Meyer says there won't be enough vaccines, and as infection rates and deaths spike in some countries, criminals will introduce fakes into supply chains. [...] Ho Tu Nam said criminal organizations have been waiting eagerly for immunization programs to start, and for vaccine shortages. “Now people are aware that the vaccine exists; people know it's being rolled out in certain countries, and I think it's a perfect time for those syndicates to come in and say, ‘We have the vaccine; you're not getting it in the hospitals, you're not getting it in your private clinics, so come to us.’” she said. And they have been successful in the past. Schneider says groups dealing in black market vaccines do their best to make their products look legitimate. »

The Partnership for Safe Medicines reported that empty COVID-19 vaccine vials are for sale online. They did the test and could buy some vials after a brief online search. They highlight that there are no requirements for secure destruction for COVID-19 vaccine vials since they are not seen as medical waste. For criminals, the empty vaccine vials are a great opportunity for vaccine scams.

Extract. « The black market for Covid vaccines and proof of vaccination is growing rapidly as people tire of restrictions and are anxious to return to normalcy. It is also driven by the inequitable distribution of vaccines, leaving many low- and middle-income (LMIC) countries behind. [...] Fake vaccines—substituting plain salt water for a vaccine, for example—might not cause immediate harm, but may fuel distrust about vaccines’ effectiveness. People will falsely assume that they are protected and engage in risky behaviors. Sharing vaccines equitably would also likely slow down counterfeiting drugs, which is particularly a pressure in the poorer countries that don’t have access to vaccines that wealthy nations do. »

Annex: MQM Globe general discussions and alerts on COVID-19 vaccines

In addition to the above warnings, that our team collected ad hoc, please have a look at the annex. It contains general discussions the MQM Globe holds on SF COVID-19 vaccine issues in English and was automatically generated for the period of the 1st of November 2020 to the 30th of April 2021.

Many articles are discussing alerts by regulatory authorities or the challenges of the distribution of the COVID-19 vaccines: describing the possible shortages and the concurrent threats of theft, diversion, price gouging, falsification, and some of the solutions to overcome the challenges such as blockchain technology to monitor the COVID-19 vaccine supply chain.

Notes: [...] Routine safety monitoring and analysis of the approved COVID-19 vaccines by the UK's medicines regulator, the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA), shows that the safety of these vaccines remains as high as expected from the clinical trial data that supported the approvals. The safety profile of the vaccines remains positive and the benefits continue to far outweigh any known side-effects.

Over 10 million doses of the Pfizer/BioNTech and the Oxford University/AstraZeneca vaccines have been given across the UK and the MHRA has gathered a large amount of safety data. [...]

Notes: Criminals are targeting not only individuals but also care facilities, he says, describing a phony "pharmaceutical representative" who offered to sell a residential care facility a number of vaccines to inoculate its patients and staff. Fortunately, though, administrators suspected something was amiss, contacted Pfizer and learned it was a ruse, he says.

Talking about the pandemic-induced onslaught of scams and frauds, Kubiak says Pfizer noticed criminal organizations purporting to sell coronavirus vaccines last spring, many months before the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) on Dec. 11 authorized the Pfizer-BioNTech

COVID-19 vaccine for emergency use in this country. (Now the FDA is poised to authorize a second coronavirus vaccine, from Moderna, for emergency use in the U.S.)

Throughout the health crisis, Pfizer surveilled COVID-19 scams and reported what it spotted to government authorities, Kubiak says. "We began to scour the open web and the dark web for anything — any intelligence — related to COVID-19 related scams." The intelligence it tracked and shared dealt with counterfeit protective gear — face masks, gloves and gowns, for example — and counterfeit treatments. [...]

Notes: [...] The identity of the cyber criminal gang who broke into the EMA's systems has not yet been revealed during the course of the investigation, however multiple organisations associated with the development of Covid-19 vaccines, as well as their transport and storage, have found themselves under attack by nation state backed actors.

Earlier in January 2021 a study conducted by polling company YouGov found that that Britons were among the most enthusiastic proponents of the various Covid-19 vaccines now coming to market, with 80% saying they would be happy to receive it, second only to Thailand in the data. People in Denmark, Mexico, India, Spain, Australia, Italy, China and Malaysia were also more likely to say they would take the vaccine when offered.

However, in a sign of how widespread anti-vaccination sentiment has become, only 47% of Americans said they would receive the vaccine, 39% of French people, and 28% of Poles, many of whom said they were worried about what the vaccines contain. Rates were also lower in a number of Apac states including Singapore, the Philippines, Taiwan and Hong Kong, but this likely reflects those governments' competent and effective response to the pandemic as opposed to anti-vaccination sentiment. [...]

Notes: The Food and Drug Administration has authorized health care workers to use extra doses of the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine found in some of the vials that have been distributed throughout the country this week.

The agency issued the guidance Wednesday after health care workers reported throwing out the excess vaccine, fearing it would be against the rules to use it.

”At this time, given the public health emergency, FDA is advising that it is acceptable to use every full dose obtainable (the sixth, or possibly even a seventh) from each vial, pending resolution of the issue,” the FDA wrote in a tweet. As health care workers prepared for its arrival they expected to receive vials holding five doses. That left many surprised by the overfilled containers. [...]

Notes: The world still lacks a proven coronavirus vaccine, but that has not stopped Chinese officials from trying to inoculate tens of thousands, if not hundreds of thousands, of people outside the traditional testing process. Three vaccine candidates are being injected into workers whom the government considers essential, along with many others, including employees of the pharmaceutical firms themselves.

Officials are laying out plans to give shots to even more people, citing emergency use, amounting to a big wager that the vaccines will eventually prove to be safe and effective.

China's rush has bewildered global experts. No other country has injected people with unproven vaccines outside the usual drug trial process to such a huge scale. [...] It is not clear how many people in China have received coronavirus vaccines. Sinopharm, a Chinese state-owned company with a vaccine candidate in late-stage trials, has said hundreds of thousands of people have received its shots. Sinovac, a Beijing-based company, said more than 10,000 people in Beijing had been injected with its vaccine. Separately, it said nearly all its employees — around 3,000 in total — and their families had taken it. [...]

Scammers have been selling fake cures, treatments and protective equipment since the coronavirus pandemic began eight months ago, but Immigration and Customs Enforcement is "preparing for a surge in anticipated fraud" as drug companies approach approval from the Federal Drug Administration and prepare to distribute their vaccines, ICE announced Monday.

ICE isn't the only agency sounding the alarm. The FBI and Federal Drug Administration have been working with major drug manufacturers, including Pfizer and Moderna, to prepare for distribution, and put protections in place to combat fraud, outlets report. [...]

Notes: The murky world of cybercrime has acquired a new dimension with the coronavirus pandemic in the form of increased sales of fake vaccines on the dark web as countries across the world embark on vaccination campaigns.

Hawking false antidotes against Covid-19 is a worldwide problem that has worried organisations like the FBI and Interpol in recent weeks, while here in Argentina companies related to cybersecurity are also issuing warnings.

”At a time when the logistics of various vaccines is taking off worldwide, we are detecting the possibility of acquiring various brands of vaccine, among them AstraZeneca Covid-19 Vaccine,” said BTR Consulting, a firm specialising in cybersecurity.

”They offer a specific quote in Bitcoins to eliminate price volatility, specifying conditions of delivery, including changing the original label to ‘saltwater’ for ‘safer’ transport and thus seeking anonymity at any time,” among other digital frauds in websites selling vaccines but which end up robbing money and information from users, the firm added. Notes: The Federal Commission for the Protection against Sanitary Risks (Cofepris) launched an alert for the sale of fake Covid-19 vaccines. The public health agency warns of their sale on the internet through social networks, by telephone, pharmacies, hospitals and even points of sale.

They say it is the AstraZeneca vaccine in particular that is being offered. In a statement, the agency stressed that acquiring this type of drug "constitutes a health risk due to its unknown origin," adding that anyone seeing the AstraZeneca SA de CV vaccine for sale, "should not purchase it since, at the moment in Mexico, its sale to the private sector is not authorized." Notes: Coronavirus vaccine scammers are running wild on the internet — with some setting up fake drug company websites to cash in on the desperate demand for shots, federal authorities said Friday.

A bogus website claiming to belong the drugmaker Moderna — whose vaccine was greenlit by a Food and Drug Administration panel Thursday — was shut down Friday by the U.S. attorney for the District of Maryland, officials said.

Fraudsters set up the sham web domain, mordernatx.com, to steal personal information from customers and potentially send out spyware, according to a press release about the scheme. [...]

Notes: Investigators were ”not able to detect criminal activity” related to the disappearance of 975 doses of the COVID-19 vaccine delivered in January to the Knox County Health Department.

In a letter sent by District Attorney General Charme Allen to Knoxville police and obtained by Knox News, she told police investigators she had reviewed their findings, planned to close the DA office’s case and told police they could close their case, as well.

A police report obtained by Knox News shows that investigators spoke to the two employees involved, leaders at the health department, the FedEx driver who delivered the package, a Waste Management employee and Pfizer’s global security director. They also reviewed security footage that shows an employee putting the box into a dumpster and a truck hauling the trash away.

"At this time I do not believe this aforementioned vaccine was stolen. I believe this was mistakenly thrown out," a Knoxville Police Department investigator wrote. [...]

Feuer said although the first COVID-19 vaccines are being administered by Pfizer, they are not yet available to all.

People should beware of texts or calls or house visits from people claiming they have a vaccine or can give people early access to an inoculation, he said.

"While this is terrific news, the vaccine won't be available on a widespread basis until spring or early summer," Feuer said. Notes: The Bureau of Customs (BOC) on Wednesday warned the public against the possible proliferation of locally-manufactured vaccines against novel coronavirus disease (COVID-19) as the government gears up for the rollout of its vaccination program. "BOC warns the public to be careful when availing of vaccines as fake vaccines may have severe health consequences to users,” the bureau said in a statement. ”The composition of such vaccines are not tested and even worse, fake vaccines may not be effective thus further exposing users to the dangers of COVID-19,” it added. [...]

Notes: Three days after Nigeria began vaccination for coronavirus, there are concerns that fake and illegal COVID-19 vaccines may soon flood the Nigerian market if the Federal Government did not tackle the situation urgently. The anxiety was heightened, last week, when the global police organization, Interpol Police, in China and South Africa reportedly seized thousands of fake doses of the COVID-19 vaccine, warning this represented only the "tip of the iceberg" in vaccine-related crime. [...] The situation has raised questions about readiness of Nigeria to prevent fake vaccines from getting into the country, a situation that could increase concerns about efficacy and apathy.

The Guardian investigation revealed that real the challenge for government is that there are no enough vaccines. Some travellers may become so desperate to be tempted to take from the black market, which might encourage its smuggling. [...]

For some time now, it has been circulating on social networks and messaging services, mainly Whatsapp, a series of publications and message chains that ensure that the drug popularly known as ivermectin it works better than any vaccine. Supposedly this drug not only would be able to prevent disease, as a vaccine would, it is also capable of cure infected people. [...] The experts were blunt: Lhe results available so far are not sufficient to ensure that ivermectin is effective to prevent or treat COVID-19 , they confirmed from the Twitter account dedicated to combating misinformation about the pandemic. Notes: With the US and other major countries poised to begin national distribution of multiple FDA-approved COVID-19 vaccines, the cybersecurity threats to secure COVID19 vaccine distribution is imminent. Earlier this month, IBM released a report on malicious cyber actors targeting the COVID-19 cold chain—an integral part of delivering and storing a vaccine at safe temperatures.

Impersonating a biomedical company, cyber actors are sending phishing and spear-phishing emails to executives and global organizations involved in vaccine storage and transport to harvest account credentials. The emails have been posed as requests for quotations for participation in a vaccine program. In the report, IBM urges companies in the COVID-19 supply chain — from research of therapies, healthcare delivery to the distribution of a vaccine — to be vigilant and remain on high alert during this time

We recently sat down with Nigel Thorpe, Technical Director, SecureAge, an enterprise data security and encryption company to talk about the cybersecurity risks involved with COVID-19 vaccine distribution. [...]

Notes: The U.S. Department of Treasury Financial Crimes Enforcement Network has issued a warning to financial institutions to be alert to the threat of fraud, ransomware and other types of criminal activity targeting COVID-19 vaccines and their distribution.

The warning, issued Monday, states that COVID-19 vaccine fraud may include the sale of unapproved and illegally marketed vaccines, counterfeit versions of approved vaccines and the illegal diversion of legitimate vaccines. FinCEN claims that fraudsters are already offering to provide potential victims with a vaccine sooner than otherwise available for a fee.

Ransomware is specifically mentioned. The notice says operators will continue to exploit the COVID-19 pandemic, stating that there are current ransomware campaigns directly targeting vaccine research. FinCEN notes that it's likely that similar attacks could be launched to disrupt the vaccine supply chain and delivery operations. [...]

Notes: [...] Counterfeiting is a big business that harms legitimate commerce and helps criminal networks, the Department of Homeland Security says. But now the feds are warning against other fakes that are much more sinister, and potentially dangerous

Officials said that counterfeit medicine and personal protective equipment are already rampant, and officials fear that false COVID-19 vaccines may be next.

"COVID-19 vaccines will not be available outside regular distribution networks, however these criminal organizations will try to sell you otherwise," said Special Agent in Charge Erik Rosenblatt. "This pandemic has created a massive market for these criminal organizations."

Ahead of the holidays, officials want shoppers to beware of what they buy, and if a deal on anything — whether it's clothes, electronics or even medication or a coronavirus vaccine — is too good to be true, it's probably a fake.

"The market is flooded with counterfeit consumer goods sold online, in stores and on street corners," Rosenblatt said. "Not only ripping off consumers and providing shoddy, dangerous products, but also potentially putting your health and personal financial information at risk."

Notes: Mexican authorities are investigating the theft of several coronavirus vaccines from a public hospital, the army said Tuesday, underscoring the challenges of distributing the shots across the crime-plagued country.

Mexico, which has one of the world's highest Covid-19 death tolls, has deployed the military to guard the vaccines and prevent them falling into criminals' hands.

The army said that the stolen vaccines were under the control of a public health institution in a hospital in central Morelos state whose security is overseen by a private company.

"This theft could have been a dishonest act of self-interest by a member of the hospital's vaccination team," it said in a statement.

The Mexican government has promised to make vaccinations available free of charge across the country of almost 129 million people – a massive logistical challenge – starting with frontline health workers.

There have been a handful of reported cases of queue-jumping, including a hospital manager who was sanctioned for being immunized along with his family.

Notes: U.S. Customs and Border Protection officers have seized nearly 15 million counterfeit face masks since the beginning of the coronavirus pandemic, the agency reported Thursday. Agents confiscated the unsafe personal protective equipment as part of an effort to prevent criminals from exploiting the public crisis for economic gain.

The agency also seized roughly 180,000 prohibited COVID-19 test kits and more than 38,000 prohibited chloroquine tablets typically used to treat malaria. Chloroquine is considered safe for patients with malaria, but has not been shown to be an effective treatment for COVID-19. [...]

Notes: The top international law enforcement agency, Interpol, released a warning last week stating that organized crime networks may try to scam people into buying fraudulent COVID-19 vaccines. Interpol also expressed concern that criminal organizations could attempt to interrupt the supply chain and steal legitimate doses of the vaccine. The pandemic has presented a ripe opportunity for making and selling fraudulent products that claim to prevent and cure COVID-19. [...] Interpol suspects much of the misinformation regarding fraudulent vaccines will take place online.

The real vaccine won't be distributed online, so avoid circumventing the process for what may seem like early access to the shot. [...]

Notes: [...] Europol, which is based in The Hague, stated that dark web markets had already begun featuring advertisements for fake COVID-19 vaccines "using the brands of genuine pharmaceutical companies," and warned that these adverts would increase once officially-approved vaccines started to be widely rolled out.

The European law enforcement agency warned of the damage that could be caused by the distribution of illicit vaccines.

"Counterfeit COVID-19 vaccines may represent a significant public health threat if they are ineffective at best or toxic at worst, given their production in underground labs without hygiene standards," Europol's warning said.

Targeting supply chains

It also stated that there is a risk facing vaccine supply chains, which could be targeted by criminal groups. "Counterfeit vaccines may circulate on illicit markets or be introduced to the legal market, as occurs regularly with other counterfeit pharmaceuticals,” the police agency said.

”For example, criminals may resort to illegally refilling empty vials. Therefore, procedures for the correct disposal of vials by grinding or incineration will have to be properly enforced.” [...]

Notes: [...] Whilst most vaccines have little street value, initial limited supplies of a COVID-19 vaccine — compounded by a likely high demand from anxious populations — will make it a target for theft and diversion.

Many countries lack what the World Health Organization considers to be well-functioning and integrated medicines regulatory systems, making it more likely that substandard and falsified vaccines will appear on the market. The impact of these could be devastating, fueling skepticism and distrust, worsening the pandemic, and ultimately costing lives. [...]

Notes: SHARE TWEET SHARE SHARE EMAIL As the distribution of the COVID-19 vaccine continues to roll out to medical workers and high-risk populations, the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN) is asking financial institutions to be extra vigilant when it comes to cybersecurity.

”Already, fraudsters have offered, for a fee, to provide potential victims with the vaccine sooner than permitted under the applicable vaccine distribution plan,” FinCEN said in a statement on

”In addition, cybercriminals, including ransomware operators, will continue to exploit the COVID-19 pandemic alongside legitimate efforts to develop, distribute, and administer vaccines,” according to the agency.

There have already been ransomware attacks aimed at medical research facilities working on vaccinations. FinCEN said similar attacks could be launched to disrupt the vaccine supply chain and delivery operations.

Further, FinCEN said phishing schemes could surface targeting people with fraudulent vaccine information, the sale of unapproved and illegally marketed vaccines and the sale of counterfeit versions of approved vaccines. [...]

"Government officials have already been cracking down on phony COVID testing kits and treatments," the BBB said in a news release. "Now, they are ramping up efforts to prevent the sale of fake vaccines."

Selling fake vaccines and other treatments are likely only one of many ways scammers will try to cash in on the vaccine release. [...]

Notes: Industry experts have urged the government bodies to consider the need to incorporate an end-to-end traceability mechanism on all COVID-19 vaccines. They reason that it is the need of the hour to build a supply chain that has visibility and enhanced effectiveness to ensure that the largest feasible portion of India's population benefits from the initial limited supplies. Experts are suggesting that the government makes it mandatory for vaccine manufacturers to implement serial numbers, bar codes and a systems driven end-to-end traceability and tracking system, which will monitor the distribution channel, quality of drug, patient safety, counterfeiting etc. [...]

Notes: On the World Health Organization's (WHO) COVAX website , one video is quoted as saying, "When the world has safe and effective vaccines, how can we make sure they reach the people that need them the most?" The WHO may need to urgently drill down into answering that question because there is a robust COVID-19 vaccine counterfeit market set to make millions shipping fake vaccines to Africa. Djibouti, Lome (Togo), and Cotonou (Benin) are all known entry points for fake pharmaceutical products related to the COVID-19 pandemic. Based on historical data, there is no reason to believe that these ports won't also serve as a hub for counterfeit COVID-19 vaccines. In particular, one port is making the news as an "easy target" – Mombasa Port in Kenya. Three weeks ago, Mombasa Port, one of Africa's busiest harbors, registered an increase in the number of ships and cargo. Kenya Ports Authority (KPA) told Africa Inc. Magazine they were optimistic about the early indications of significant growth. However, there is also concern about the Port Authority's ability to inspect goods because, as one port worker stated , "The more shipments, the less inspection." [...]

842196	Officials warn of fake COVID-19 vaccines sold online amid impending rollout	Link

Notes: With the rollout of the COVID-19 vaccine possibly just days away, experts are warning everyone to beware of vaccine scams that could be dangerous to your health.

Researchers at the UC San Diego School of Medicine found that fake COVID-19 claims have come in waves, starting in March with claims of cures and fake testing kits.

Now, they're seeing a plethora of fake vaccine posts. [...] Mackey is the lead author of a study released in August that shows an increase in posts tied to financial scams, possible counterfeit goods and unapproved treatments. Now, he's seeing a wave of fake vaccines.

Most times, according to Mackey, they're just trying to scam you out of your money, but if you do receive a fake vaccine, it could harm more than just your wallet. [...] But once the vaccine is released, Mackey warns there's also a need to ensure vials are properly disposed because they could be re-used for fake vaccine doses.

Then there's the black market danger.

"There's a lot of pharmaceutical companies that are worried about the security of their product, like people actually just reselling legitimate vaccines or maybe even reselling spoiled vaccines because so much of it is going to be temperature controlled," explained Mackey.

Experts say any vaccine you get should only be through a licensed medical professional, and most health departments will publish a list of approved COVID-19 vaccine providers.

According to the consumer awareness office for the county, among the scams identified are ones regarding bogus products, testing sites and vaccine availability. The scams are being directed toward consumers via email, texting and telephone. In most cases, the attention-getting scams seek to have innocent residents provide the scammers with funds for services or products that do not actually exist. In other cases, fake or stolen vaccines may be offered on the "darknet."

Notes: As America prepares to distribute another scarce vaccine, some are wary that history could repeat. Interpol is warning that criminals are scheming to intercept COVID-19 vaccines, and federal officials have raised concerns about counterfeit doses — the scenario that most worries Dr. Georges Benjamin, executive director of the American Public Health Association. "My biggest fear is not so much that too many celebrities will get it first," he said. "Tragically, that's going to happen. I just hope there's not a lot of it. My biggest fear is the black market and the false market. I'm concerned about people fraudulently selling vaccine and people being defrauded by (phony promises)." [...] The vaccines will travel through global supply chains, and Interpol, the international law enforcement agency, has warned that "high demand combined with a limited supply will make COVID-19 vaccines the equivalent of liquid gold to organized crime networks as soon as one is available."

U.S. Customs and Immigration Enforcement officials say they anticipate that criminals will also try to sell counterfeit vaccines to the unwary, possibly via social media ads, illicit websites or robocalls. [...]

Notes: The unequal global distribution of COVID-19 vaccines could spur the trade in fake doses in Africa – a hotspot for counterfeit medicines, analysts warned on Friday, citing the seizure of falsified vaccination shots in South Africa.

With poorer countries grappling to procure enough vaccine doses for their people, criminals will likely see an opportunity to profit, especially in Africa where imports account for more than 80% of pharmaceutical needs, they said.

”Already Africa has a problem with counterfeit medicines. The lack of local production and weak enforcement have for years allowed products to enter countries, such as fake medication for malaria in West Africa,” said Richard Chelin, senior researcher at the ENACT program at the Institute for Security Studies.

”Now with rich nations hoarding vaccines, this is likely to get worse. The consequence of this vaccine grabbing is that it creates opportunity for criminal networks. Everyone wants the vaccine and people will panic and buy whatever is out there.” [...]

Notes: [...] If history is a guide, illicit markets for the Covid-19 vaccine are likely to develop to feed people who wish to jump the line or simply profit from trading in a valuable commodity. These illicit markets will, in turn, build the necessary motivation for criminal networks to steal and counterfeit the new vaccine. And the arrival of these illicit markets online — offering real or faked Covid vaccines — is as certain as receiving a spam call. It is, therefore, imperative that the rapid and early detection of illicit vaccine markets be prioritized by federal law enforcement in partnership with the vast array of cyberspace watchers in the National Security Agency. Unlike the past, these markets can be rapidly established on the dark net, operate globally using anonymous communications tools and rely on cryptocurrencies providing anonymity.

These dark markets are hard but not impossible to combat. Identifying and either shutting down these markets via technology or by destroying their credibility have been used to previous good effect. And in cases where uncooperative governments won't stop these markets, infiltrating them so no buyer or seller can be sure they aren't dealing with law enforcement has proven to be effective. [...]

Notes: [...] The city today retains its reputation as an integral part of Africa's criminal underbelly, being a major entry point for narcotics from the Middle East and illicit pharmaceuticals from Asia. Over the past 12 months, there's been increasing talk in East African intelligence and law enforcement circles about the role it could play in facilitating shipments of falsified and substandard Covid-19 vaccines.[...] "Inspection regimes have been reduced in order to facilitate the swift and hassle-free movement of items through the border, to be distributed across the region," says Broome. This, however, also allows organised crime groups "to facilitate the movement of illicit medications" — most of them from Asia. [...] In East Africa, several police officers tell Bhekisisa they're concerned that falsified, substandard and stolen Covid vaccines could be distributed by some of the region's many thousand informal "chemists".

It's a valid concern, says Interpol.

"The number of unlicensed pharmacies has increased across the region during Covid-19," says Broome. "We see an example of this during this period where 56 arrests were made in Uganda and there was the closure of 1,526 facilities. These enable, for example, the sales of fake antivirals imported from Asia."

Broome says members of organised crime groups are trying to "franchise" illegal pharmacies all over East Africa, "which would give them an even greater air of legitimacy". [...]

Notes: The other shoe has dropped! At least it has in the world of counterfeit pharmaceuticals. Since early in the pandemic, the US has faced a significant and still ongoing wave of counterfeit PPE entering the country from abroad. A recent Wall Street Journal article confirms what had been feared for months; a rise in the availability of counterfeit Covid-19 vaccines. Albeit the counterfeit doses were found in Mexico and Poland, it does not portend well for the efforts to reign in the pandemic around the world.

To understand the situation, we must look at a fundamental truth when it comes to counterfeits. It is one that has been repeated for years by the brand owner community; counterfeiters are not modern-day Robin Hoods. They line their own pockets with no regard whatsoever for public health and safety. This sad fact remains true now more than ever. [...]

Notes: COVID-19 has spawned a "stark rise" in the global circulation of fake medical products relating to the pandemic, experts warn as they launch an alliance aimed at tackling the scourge.

The Fight the Fakes (FTF) Alliance, a non-profit association comprising 16 organisations from manufacturers to wholesalers, and research and patient groups, aims to raise the profile of an issue it views as long under-addressed globally, with a disproportionate impact on low- and middle-income countries.

One in 10 medical products in developing countries is either substandard or falsified, according to World Health Organization (WHO) figures from 2017. And some research suggests the prevalence of fake medicines can be as high as 70 per cent in some African countries. [...] COVID-19 has resulted in a surge in falsified medical products, causing concern at a time when vaccines are being developed.

A recent report by the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) highlights that people deprived of essential medical products in some African countries may accept falsified alternatives under fear and uncertainty engendered by criminal groups.

Angela Me, chief of the Research and Trend Analysis Branch at the UNODC, said: "With vaccines gradually emerging around the globe, it is likely that criminal groups take advantage of the gap between demand and supply. [...]"

Notes: The U.S. Senate unanimously passed a bill introduced by U.S. Senators Mike Enzi of Wyoming and Maggie Hassan of New Hampshire, to help protect patients from counterfeit medical products. According to a joint news release from the senators, the Safeguarding Therapeutics Act would give the Food and Drug Administration authority to seize and destroy counterfeit medical devices and products, including COVID-19 tests and vaccines, as well as counterfeit combination products like EpiPens. Senator Enzi said that it's crucial that we work to protect patients and ensure confidence in our healthcare system, especially as we continue to combat the COVID-19 pandemic. The U.S. House passed similar legislation in September, but because the Senate version had small technical differences, the Safeguarding Therapeutics Act now must be passed by the House before being sent to the president for his signature.

Notes: As India inches closer to the massive national Covid-19 immunisation drive, the necessity to ensure that vaccines reach the people in safe and uncompromised state has become crucial. The huge gap in demand and supply of Covid vaccines has made experts wary of pilferage and infiltration by counterfeits once they hit the market shelves. Lalit Kant, former head of epidemiology and communicable diseases at the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR), said that the vaccine is a commodity which is currently sought after by more than 7 billion people around the world, a situation which possibly triggers many kinds of mischiefs. [...] S. Swaminathan, COO, GS1 India, which provides universally unique barcode numbers, concurred with Kant and said that there are high chances of spurious products entering the supply chain. However, he suggested that real-time monitoring to track and trace vaccines from manufacturing to end user can rule out such possibilities. "A robust tracking mechanism to monitor the supply chain of the vaccines are important to trace down if an anomaly emerges. This will be critical for various other reasons – to recall batches in case of any adverse event or manufacturing error, to ensure that the person getting the vaccine gets two shots of the same vaccine from the same manufacturer," he added. Notes: [...] The slow vaccine rollout is leaving thousands of Americans wondering when they will get their turn for vaccinations. COVID-19 has created breeding grounds for a new set of black market products, beginning with the falsification of hand sanitizer in the early stages of the pandemic. With a slow vaccination process, America’s wealthy class and those with political connections are seizing the opportunity to cut in line for vaccinations, some posing as healthcare professionals. According to experts, it was only inevitable a black market would emerge from the Trump Administration’s failure to adequately set guidelines for inoculation. Nico Passas, a Northwestern University Professor, spoke out in a discussion regarding the black market citing fear of ”falsified” products which ”undermines...public health of the community.” [...]

Notes: WASHINGTON — U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) today released operational statistics for February 2021, which can be viewed here.

February marked the start of processing for migrants with active cases under the Migrant Protection Protocols (MPP) through three ports of entry. To date, CBP has processed 1,500 individuals through this phased program. Migrants are required to go through a staging and COVID-19 testing process before entry. If individuals appear at the port of entry without going through this process, they are not admitted. CBP also conducts biometric checks to confirm that individuals do not pose a threat to the American public. Anyone who poses a national security or public safety threat is detained and removed according to existing protocols.

”The United States is continuing to strictly enforce our existing immigration laws and border security measures,” said CBP Senior Official Performing the Duties of the Commissioner Troy Miller. “Those who attempt to cross the border without going through ports of entry should understand that they are putting themselves and their families in danger, especially during the pandemic. Due to COVID-19 restrictions, the border is not open, and the vast majority of people are being returned under Title 42. Do not believe smugglers or others claiming otherwise.”

CBP Enforcement Numbers

In February 2021, CBP encountered 100,441 persons attempting entry along the Southwest border. This total represented a 28 percent increase over January 2021. CBP completed 72,113 expulsions from the border pursuant to CDC guidance under Title 42 authority.

The number of encounters at the border has been rising since April 2020 due to ongoing violence, natural disasters, food insecurity, and poverty in the Northern Triangle countries of Central America. As it always has, the number of individuals crossing the border continues to fluctuate and CBP adapts accordingly.

CBP enforcement numbers for February 2021 can be found here.

Unaccompanied Children

Beginning in April 2020, CBP has seen an increase in encounters of unaccompanied children from Central America at the Southwest Border.

In Fiscal Year 2021 through February, 29,792 unaccompanied children and single minors have been encountered along the Southwest Border. Two thousand nine hundred and forty-two of these children are under the age of 12 years old and 26,850 are aged 13-17 years old.

DHS has continued its close coordination with the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) as it increases its capacity to care for unaccompanied children and place them with sponsors. Our goal is to ensure that CBP has the continued capability to efficiently transfer unaccompanied children to HHS as quickly as possible, consistent with legal requirements and the best interest of the children.

Addressing unaccompanied children crossing our southwest border is an important priority of this Administration. It requires a coordinated and sustained whole-of-government response.

Drug Seizures

CBP officers, Border Patrol agents, and Air and Marine Operations agents continued to interdict the flow of illicit narcotics across the border. Nationwide, drug seizures increased 50 percent in February from January 2021. Cocaine interceptions decreased 13 percent. Seizures of methamphetamine increased 40 percent. Seizures of heroin went up 48 percent and seizures of fentanyl decreased by 17 percent.

Despite the slight drop for February, CBP is seeing a drastic increase in fentanyl seizures this fiscal year – more than 360 percent higher than this same time last year. For all Fiscal Year 2020, CBP intercepted more than 4,700 pounds. Just five months into this year, CBP has seized nearly 5,000 pounds.

Additional CBP drug seizure statistics can be found here.

Life-saving Rescues

CBP continued to perform a large number of rescues of citizens and migrants in February 2021, with more than 893 rescues nationwide. Over the past year, CBP agents and officers have rescued more than 7,600 individuals, regardless of their circumstance or status.

Effects of COVID-19 on CBP Personnel

The safety of our workforce, our communities, and those in our care is a top priority. CBP personnel put themselves and their families at risk with every encounter at the border. Since the start of the pandemic, more than 8,000 CBP employees have tested positive for COVID-19, and 27 have died.

CBP is focused on providing access to the COVID-19 vaccine to our workforce and is collaborating with the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Department of Homeland Security to expedite the delivery of vaccinations to personnel. To date, based on self-reporting, at least 23 percent of CBP's front line personnel have been vaccinated.

Our policy is to protect our national and border security, address the humanitarian challenges at the U.S.-Mexico border, and ensure public health and safety.

DHS and CBP are working with local mayors and public health officials to provide COVID-19 testing and, as needed, isolation and quarantine for families released from Border Patrol facilities.

Trade and Counterfeit Seizures

CBP continues to collaborate with federal partners and the trade community to facilitate the importation of legitimate medical supplies and other goods necessary for the COVID-19 response while verifying that those goods are authorized and safe for use. As part of that effort, CBP is interdicting fraudulent and unauthorized goods that could harm the health and safety of Americans. Since the pandemic began until the end of February, CBP had seized more than:

177,500 FDA-prohibited COVID-19 test kits in 414 incidents. These items were either prohibited for not meeting legal requirements, or they were potentially unlicensed, 30 million counterfeit face masks seized in 611 incidents, 37,000 EPA-prohibited anti-virus lanyards in 118 incidents, 38,000 FDA-prohibited chloroquine tablets in 229 incidents, 6,000 tablets of antibiotics, such as azithromycin in 108 incidents, and 300,000 containers of hand sanitizer in 36 incidents.

Mike Yarwood, TT Club's MD Loss Prevention, warns the risks should not be under-estimated, "It is probable that the market for counterfeit pharmaceuticals is worth $400 billion a year and the World Health Organisation (WHO) estimates that up to one million people die annually from counterfeited drugs... Notes: Last month, black market entrepreneurs were arrested for a multimillion-dollar COVID-19 vaccine scam, passing saline water for the in-demand shot. Before getting caught, the counterfeiters had scored $2.78 million in earnings and managed to manufacture more than 58,000 fake doses. The criminals allegedly acquired vaccine bottles through the “internal channels” of Chinese vaccine manufacturers.

As only one of 21 major vaccine fraud incidents currently being investigated by Beijing, this incident brought to mind a long-standing issue in China: pharmaceutical fraud.

In 2001, according to public health researchers, 192,000 Chinese patients reportedly died due to use of fake pharmaceuticals. That same year, Beijing investigated 480,000 cases of counterfeit drug manufacturing. Much has improved in the two decades since, but with roughly $100 billion in collective investment in the biotechnology industry, pharma fraud remains a big concern. How have China’s regulators historically dealt with it, and what does the future look like? [...]

Notes: As the first COVID-19 vaccines have started rolling out in the US, many doctors and nurses that will first receive the vaccine said that declaring victory against the pandemic is still premature, especially with the alarming shortage of personal protective equipment (PPEs) in the hospitals in the US.

The New York Times reported that the lack or shortage of the PPEs have led frontline medical health workers to ration their use of disposable gowns, gloves, N95 masks that protect them from catching the virus.

Even at the beginning, there have been shortages of PPEs reported, and during the months of the summer season. According to NPR, demand for respirator masks, gloves, gowns, thermometers, and other PPEs have remained high, as well as their prices. Notes: [...] There will be new battles ahead, as recent warnings by Interpol and Europol about the emerging threats of counterfeit vaccines show; the rush to bring the vaccine to patients as quickly as possible must not be at the cost of jeopardising the security of the medicines supply. It could, of course, be argued that threats are negligible in Europe where the supply chain for regulated medicines is highly secure, in no small part thanks to the European Medicines Verification System (EMVS) that has been established to fulfil the requirements of the EU Falsified Medicines (EU-FMD) directive.

The EMVS provides a very high level of protection against counterfeiting (and other criminal activities) but – and this is an important ‘but’ – only if the products are supplied in compliance with the EU-FMD/EMVS processes.

All medicines supplied, including COVID vaccines, need to be serialised and tamper-evidenced. Additionally, their unique identifiers (UIs) must be recorded twice; once when the UIs are uploaded to the European Hub at the time of batch release, and again at the point of dispense, when every pack UI is checked against the appropriate National Medicines Verification System.
